

ROYALTY TO VISIT THE EXPOSITION

The King of Cambodia to Come to Jamestown With Large Retinue.

THE DANCING GIRLS SUPERB

Cambodia Old as Egypt and Shows Remains of Ancient Civilization.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
NORFOLK, Va., November 11.—Advice from Paris says that the King of Cambodia, who recently visited France as a guest of the nation, will probably attend the Jamestown Exposition next year, accompanied by a retinue of attendants and a corps of dancing girls.

Robert J. Oglesby, of Kansas City, recently in Norfolk, and the first American to gain admission to Angkor, a sacred city of ruins in that country, and a friend of the ruler, whom he met in Paris upon his visit, says the Parisian capital was in a state of fever, and that the King and his novel suite created a sensation in society, especially among artists. Mr. Oglesby says the King was completely captured by the attention accorded him, and when the suggestion was made that he should visit America, gave orders that a tour be arranged, and it is more than likely that this ruler will touch the shores of the United States during May of next year.

Speaking of the proposed visit to this country and the Jamestown Exposition, Mr. Oglesby said: "The King expressed to me great interest in America, and said that he had often contemplated a visit in order that he might study and observe some of the great achievements and institutions of Western civilization. The suggestion that the trip be made next year was favorably received, and I believe that he will come."

"The beauty of the women of this country is of the ancient world, and Rodin, the leader of the new sculpture, declares we have lived to see the perfection of the human form, conveying the only correct idea of perfection of the unspoiled generations which lived before even the Greeks gave their ideas to posterity. In form these dancing girls are beautiful and admirable, and I do not think the purest marble would do justice to their graceful lines. These women are not grotesque, for they wear them with dignity and meaning."

The costumes are beautiful, and are a complicated adornment which superbly shows the unspoiled beauty of the human form. They will bring us a new art, and they are among the most beautiful of children of men. These dancing girls are led by the King's sister, and a native orchestra of sixty pieces discharges music that for precision and harmony has won the commendation of famous French musicians and conductors.

Mr. Oglesby says he has visited all the famous ruins of the world, but that Angkor, probably antedates the pyramids of Egypt, and shows more advanced sense of artistic construction, and that the builders were evidently learned in the arts. One city is surrounded by a wall thirty-five miles in circumference, has a wall, and carved into the huge solid walls with bas-reliefs are figures of heroic size, showing pastoral, hunting and war scenes, and allegorical representations of religious sacrifices.

In event of the King's visit it will be the first time that a native of that country has ever set foot upon American soil, and his coming will signalize a series of national social events.

A KENTUCKY WOMAN

How She Gained Fifteen Pounds in Weight and Became Well by Taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Women at forty, or thereabouts, have their future in their own hands. There will be a change for the better or worse, for the better if the system is purified by such a tonic as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Mrs. T. C. Woodruff, of Hartford, Ky., writes as follows concerning the difficulties which afflicted her:

"I was seriously ill, and was confined to my bed for six or eight months in all during two years. I had rheumatism, rheumatism. My stomach seemed always too full, my kidneys did not act freely, my liver was inactive, my heart beat was very weak, and I had dizziness and swimming in my head and nervous troubles."

"I was under the treatment of several different physicians, but they all failed to do me any good. After suffering for two years I learned from an Arkansas friend about the merits of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I decided that I would try them. The very first box I took made me feel better, and when I had taken three boxes I was able to get up, weighed fifteen pounds more than when I began, resumed my household duties, and have since continued in the best of health. I have recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to many of my friends, and am interested in the cure of Mrs. Woodruff will want our book, 'Plain Talks to Women,' which is free on request."

COL. FORD SUGGESTED TO SUCCEED GEN. SHIPP

He Is Regarded as Eminently Fitted for the Position.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
HARTFORD, Va., November 11.—In and around Hartford Colonel H. C. Ford has many friends who are delighted to know that there is a probability of his being chosen superintendent of the Virginia Military Institute in case the visitors decide to accept General Shipp's resignation. Some years ago, before he returned to the institute as professor, Colonel Ford was instructor in St. Albans School, where the latter was the origin of his success, and he made a name for himself which still lives in the hearts of the St. Albans graduates.

Colonel Ford is a man whose standards of scholarship demand the highest. Many a man remembers with gratitude the way in which he was helped up to the mark. The memory of sturdy scholarship that does not abate anything from the required task is the sort of tonic that every one wants to carry away from preparatory schools with him.

It is strikingly characteristic of Colonel Ford that, in spite of his rigid adherence to standards, he was once called the most popular teacher in the school. Young men like a straightforward man, and Colonel Ford is that. Above all things, as a soldier, he is a man of high character, and his sense of duty is a thing which is not to be made a man of. He is a man of high character, and his sense of duty is a thing which is not to be made a man of.

None will appreciate Colonel Ford's success more than his old friends in Hartford. He is a man of high character, and his sense of duty is a thing which is not to be made a man of.

THE CHICAGO LIVE STOCK SHOW

Agricultural Students and Leading Stockmen of Virginia to Attend the Exposition.

THE GREATEST IN THE WORLD

Professor A. M. Soule, of Blacksburg, Is Arranging for an Excursion.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
BLACKSBURG, Va., November 11.—The International Live Stock Exposition will be held in Chicago December 1st to 15th. This is the greatest show of fat cattle, swine and draft horses in the world. Thousands of animals are brought together every year in the magnificent buildings which the management has provided, and by this means visitors are enabled to see the very best that stock raising, breeding and management has been able to produce in animal form. The mere privilege of coming in contact with so many prominent breeders and feeders and seeing the magnificent display of live stock is an inspiration in itself. No place in America affords the students of animal production so good an opportunity to fit high ideals, to learn what the market demands and to have it impressed on him how unsatisfactory it is to produce animals of inferior merit. No person interested in live stock production can afford to miss the grand educational opportunities which the International Live Stock Exposition provides.

Realizing the necessity for improvement in animal production, an excursion to Chicago is being organized through the medium of the College of Agriculture. It is expected that a large party of students in the agricultural department will make the trip, and a number of leading stockmen have indicated their intention of going along. It is desirable as far as possible that the Virginia contingent go together, which accounts for the publication of this notice. The railroads have arranged for a single fare, plus $2, to Chicago and return. It is likely that the excursion will leave on the 29th or 30th of November, and three days or more will be spent in Chicago. The entire trip will not occupy more than five days, and it is estimated that the expenses need not exceed $25 from Blacksburg or vicinity. The cost will be proportionate from other sections of the State. It will add greatly to the pleasure and the profit of the trip if all persons intending to visit the International show go in one party. It will be appreciated, therefore, if any persons who desire to make this trip will communicate with me personally or with Major John T. Cowan, Cowan's Mills, Va. It is to be hoped that a large and representative delegation of Virginia stockmen will make this trip.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
WILLIAMSBURG, Va., November 11.—That a macadamized road will be laid from this town to Jamestown Island, the convenience of visitors to the exposition next year is a certainty, and work will begin December 1st. The Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Company will furnish the material, while the government will furnish the machinery. This has been already ordered. The old Jamestown Road has been adopted as the route, but it will be changed somewhat. The old dirt dam will be crossed, but the road will turn to the right at the mill to avoid the "mill dam."

ERADICATION OF TICKS PROGRESS

Dr. J. G. Fernyough Will Tell of It to the Commissioners of Agriculture.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
BLACKSBURG, Va., November 11.—"Progress Made in Tick Eradication in Virginia" is the subject which Dr. J. G. Fernyough, State Veterinarian, will present to the Commissioners of Agriculture, at their meeting in Blacksburg, to-morrow.

Dr. Fernyough attended the Interstate meeting of Live Stock Sanitary Boards, held at Springfield, Ill., last August, and will now, according to the instructions of the Board of Control, attend the above mentioned meeting in Jacksonville, Fla., since the Southern Association for Live Stock Sanitation has been dissolved.

A recommendation is now before the Bureau of Animal Industry, Washington, D. C., from Dr. Fernyough, as State Veterinarian, asking that the non-infected portions of the following counties of Virginia be exempted from quarantine, since each county named below has its regular organized corps of inspectors duly authorized and appointed by the State authorities to inspect all cattle in the said counties for ticks, and quarantine all infected cattle and farms found in the said territory.

List of counties recommended for exemption at once: Appomattox, Amelia, Buckingham, Campbell, Cumberland, Franklin, Giles, Highland, Nottaway, Powhatan and Mathews. However, it is understood, and pledged by the counties above, that the infected farms of the said counties will be kept in strict quarantine by the local county authorities, subject to the orders of the State and Federal quarantine officials.

The State of Virginia has also been called upon to send the State Veterinarian to a meeting of the Southern States officials collected with the work of tick eradication, which meeting will be held at Nashville, Tenn., on the 5th of December, 1906. It is not only Dr. Fernyough's intention to attend this meeting in Nashville himself, but he has requested that each county above named send one of its local men, either an inspector or member of the board of supervisors, to the Nashville meeting, also, in order that Virginia's work may be thoroughly understood by the other States, and that her local men may have an opportunity to meet with inspectors of the bureau, as well as other local men, and thus learn their methods of inspection, quarantine, etc.

The Bureau of Animal Industry has also taken an active hand in the work of tick eradication in Virginia during the past summer and fall, and the work of her local men may have an opportunity to meet with inspectors of the bureau, as well as other local men, and thus learn their methods of inspection, quarantine, etc.
